

Call for Submissions:

Poetry Behind the Walls

An International Quarterly Journal Dedicated to the Writings of Incarcerated Kids

Open to all incarcerated kids throughout the world.

Writings may be in the form of narratives, poetry,
short stories, rap lyrics, interviews and more.

All writing should advocate positive expression and hope, while allowing for critical reflections on issues such as, race, class, gender, sexuality, restraints, detention, poverty, violence, gangs, music and drugs.
It does not matter what kind of writing ability the kid exhibits.

E-Mail Submissions to: Anthony J. Nocella, II, Executive Director of Save the Kids
(a youth re-entry and mentor program in New York)
[anthony.nocella@cortland.edu]

Subject Title – “Poetry Behind the Walls”
Please include full contact information, age, and facility name and location.